BIG IMPROVEMENT AT IDLE HOUR

Booth Has Been Put on Outside of Building Thereby Adding to Safety

OF ALL THOSE WHO ATTEND

The management of the Idle Hour moving picture show have made some decided improvement in the building. The Booth has been moved outside the building thereby making it much safer for the patrons and giving more room also. A number of Opera chairs have been ordered to be placed on the balcony and the new arrangement will allow the seating of twenty or twenty-five more patrons. The large circular fan that has recently been installed will keep the Idle Hour cool and pleasant this summer and it will be a pleasure to spend an hour in Earlington's only pleasure resort. The Universal film company have promised us some fancy films in the near future and assure the management that nothing but first-class and high-class films will be sent here.

BASIL NANCE HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Falls Under Switch Engine Sunday Night and Loses Leg

WAS SWITCHMAN IN THE YARD

Basil Nance who was switchman in the Earlington yards had a narrow escape from death Sunday night, about midnight, when he attempted to step on the foot board of the switch engine. The crew had just finished their midnight lunch and were going to work, the engine was coming slowly over the main street crossing, when young Nance attempted to step on the footboard, he missed the step and was pulled under the engine, his right leg was cut off above the knee and he was otherwise uninjured. His life was saved by a slight depression in the track that allowed the engine to pass over him. The injured man was immediately removed to the St. Bernard Hospital and medical aid called. His mother and two brother live here and as soon as his condition will permit he will be moved home. The many friends of the family regret the accident exceedingly and tender their sympathy.

HARLEY CRABTREE

Not in Dying Condition—Was Injured in California Over Month Ago

The article in Yesterday's Evansville Courier in regard to Harley Crabtree is an error. Young Crabtree when seen today by a representative of The Bee, says he was injured by a knife in the hands of a drunken Mexican on the streets of Redwood, Calif., over a month ago and was sent to the hospital at that place. He has since recovered and is now in as good condition as ever.

Mr. Crabtree is employed in his father's meat shop in DeVylers store.

HOUSE APPROVES PLAN TO CURB DICTATOR

Senate Will Consider Resolution To-day

PORTS AND CUSTOMS OFFICES ON GULF TO BE SEIZED WITHIN 24 HOURS ASSERTS OFFICIALS

LOOKS AS THOUGH THERE WILL BE A WAR

BULLETIN

Washington, April 20.—At 12:28 A. M. the Senate adjourned without any action on the resolution authorizing President Wilson to employ armed force to bring the Dictator, Huerta, to terms. By agreement, the resolution comes up for consideration at noon Tuesday (today.)

Washington, April 20.—In forty-eight hours, possibly less, the United States Government will have taken possession of the Mexican Customhouses at Tampico and Vera Cruz.

Detailed plans for landing of marines at these two important coast towns were completed at a conference at the White House between President Wilson, Secretaries Bryan, Garrison and Daniels, Maj. Gen. Wood and Rear Admirals Fiske and Blue and John Lind.

"No orders to the army and navy will be given tonight," was the announcement made after the conference, action temporarily being deferred until Congress acts on the joint resolution approving the President's purpose of using the armed forces of the United States to enforce its demands against Gen. Huerta growing out of the arrest at Tampico of American bluejackets.

The resolution passed the House tonight by a vote of 337 to 37 after a spirited debate. For several hours it was considered by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee with prospect of an all-night session of the Senate, or a recess until early tomorrow.

Asks Aid of Congress

In asking aid of Congress President Wilson said in part:

"This Government can, I earnestly hope, in no circumstances be forced into war with the people of Mexico. Mexico is torn by civil strife. If we are to accept the tests of its own Constitution, it has no government. Gen Huerta has set his power up in the City of Mexico, such as it is, without right and by methods for which there can be no justification.

"Only part of the country is under his control. If armed conflict should unhappily come as a result of his attitude of personal resentment toward this government, we should be fighting only Gen. Huerta and those who adhere to him and give him their support, and our object would be only to restore to the people of the distracted republic the opportunity to set up again their own laws and their own government.

No Desire For Territory

"But I earnestly hope that war is not now the question. I believe that I speak for the American people when I say that we do not desire to control in any degree the affairs of our sister republic. Our feeling for the people of Mexico is one of deep and genuine friendship, and everything that we have so far done or refrained from doing has proceeded from our desire to help them, not to hinder or embarrass them. We would not wish even to exercise the good offices of friendship without their welcome and consent. The people of Mexico are entitled to settle their own domestic affairs in their own way, and we sincerely respect their right. The present situation need have none of the grave complications of interference if we deal with it promptly and wisely.

"No doubt I could do what is necessary in the circumstances to enforce respect for our Government without recourse to the Congress, and yet not exceed my constitutional powers as President; but I do not wish to act on a matter of so grave consequence, except in close conference and co-operation with both the Senate and House. I, therefore, come to ask your approval that I should use the armed forces of the United States in such ways and to such an extent as may be necessary to obtain from Gen. Huerta and his advocates the fullest recognition of the rights and dignity of the United States, even against the distressing conditions now unhappily obtaining in Mexico.

"There can be no thought of aggression or of selfish aggrandizement. We seek to maintain the dignity and authority of the United States only because we wish always to keep our great influence unimpaired for the uses of liberty, both in the United States and wherever else it may be employed for the benefit of mankind."

destroyed by American Foul Brood, and does not commonly draw out in long threads. The cells containing diseased grubs are rarely capped. The odor from dead grubs is commonly not very noticeable. Both drone and queen grubs are attacked.

Treatment For Disease.

Experience shows that foul brood may be suppressed, at least for a time, by the simple practice of removing the bees to a clean hive in the frames of which are narrow strips of foundation. If all the brood is not out of the cells at the time, it can be brushed before the new hive later, or can be kept in a colony reserved for the purpose until it emerges.

The infected combs should be destroyed (rendered) by heat, if necessary by burning, and the hive should be thoroughly drenched, after scraping away all propolis and comb, inside and out, with a two per cent solution of formalin. Any honey present should be boiled thoroughly, or destroyed. The frames may well be burned. All tools used should be carefully disinfected with formalin before using them on other hives. Those engaged in inspecting colonies can not be too careful about these matters when going from one colony to another.

Queens May Be Medium.

There is some difference of opinion among those who study bee diseases as to the possibility of conveying foul brood by means of bought queens. Many practical beekeepers and queen rearers claim that these diseases are never so conveyed. People who have bought queens sometimes claim that they have introduced the disease in this way. The fact appears to be that they are not commonly conveyed by means of queens, and the postoffice regulations bearing upon the matter imply that if the candy used in the cages in which the queens are shipped is boiled, queens do not convey foul brood even when taken from infected colonies.

The subject must be regarded as "open for discussion," however.

"Pickle brood," and some other obscure diseases are not at present well enough understood to warrant any very positive statements concerning them.

Note.—A State Beekeepers' Association, organized at the University, January 9, 1914, has for one of its objects the control of the spread of foul brood in Kentucky. Those interested in this and other matters relating to beekeeping should join. Section VI of the Constitution adopted reads: "Any persons interested in beekeeping may become an active member of the Association by paying the annual dues of fifty cents."

FORAGE POISONING

In a bulletin on forage poisoning, E. W. Mumma, veterinary department, Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, says:

"In the last two months numerous letters have been received from farmers reporting the presence of this disease in a very virulent form, resulting in the loss of large numbers of animals."

"The cause of this disease is closely related to the feed. In the majority of outbreaks observed in the Blue Grass section and along the Ohio River counties, where it has been most prevalent, the cause is attributed to moldy or inferior ensilage. Samples of ensilage have been received at the Experiment Station for detailed study, and Dr. H. Garman reports the presence of molds which are considered the cause of forage poisoning in one of the middle western states."

"The disease has occurred more commonly in horses and mules where ensilage was the principal feed. Ensilage of a high grade can be fed to horses and mules with both safety and profit, but when tainted or inferior, ensilage should be fed very sparingly to any class of live stock. Cattle, however, are not so subject to its ill effects as are horses and mules. The practice of feeding ensilage to the latter must be carried on with care, and careful inspection of the ensilage must be made at each feeding time in order to discard all inferior portions. It should not be fed early in the morning or late in the evening when it is impossible to detect the spoiled and inferior feed."

"There seems to be but little doubt that this trouble could be wholly eliminated, or partially so, by the correct construction of the silo, as a majority of the outbreaks have occurred where the silo was improperly built. All silos should be covered. The silo expert may not concede that this is essential, but our observations lead us to believe that this is an excellent precaution. Any growth of molds or decomposition in the upper layers of the silage will be carried downward by rain and continue to spoil the ensilage."

The elimination of the losses, which this year will approximate $25,000.00, lies therefore, in prevention. Some outbreaks have occurred following the feeding of moldy corn or hay, all of which must be discarded and destroyed if the loss is to be entirely prevented. Animals suffering from forage poisoning do not as a rule respond readily to treatment. This was shown in the outbreak of 1912, when only 34 cattle were saved from the 134 affected; 147 horses out of 612 affected; 16 mules out of 115 affected. On the appearance of the disease a complete change of feed and quarters is quite essential, and each animal should be given a laxative to rid the intestinal canal of its contents and prevent the development of other diseases."

Honey Makers Subject to Devastating Maladies Caused By Germs—Change of Hive and Cleanliness Often Afford Relief—Debated Whether Queens Convey Foul Brood—Beekeepers Form Association.

(H. Garman, Head of Division of Entomology and Botany, Kentucky Experiment Station.)

The best-known enemy of the Honey Bee is the Bee Moth, an obscure insect that has probably been in this country ever since bees were introduced. It seems to have been a serious pest in the early days when box hives and beehives were the only means of keeping colonies. Since the movable-frame hive came into use there has been less trouble in keeping colonies free, and as a matter of fact, good colonies of Italians, or Carniolans, when properly cared for, are not troubled by this pest. The common black bee is more subject to injury, but even blacks in movable-frame hives, and kept strong, need not be seriously harmed by the moth.

Combating the Moth.

The bee moth will make trouble in weak colonies, and any exposed comb, stored in hives, or elsewhere, is pretty sure to invite attack and to be ultimately ruined. Such comb should always be kept in screened quarters so that the adult moths can not get to the comb to lay their eggs. Once in comb the young moth should be cut out and destroyed and the comb fumigated with hydrocyanic acid gas or burning sulphur. Bisulfid of carbon, sometimes used to fumigate combs, leaves an odor for a time that may prove objectionable to the bees, if the comb is used at once.

Birds and Bug Foes.

The Bee Martin, or King Bird (Tyrannus tyrannus) is a well known bee eater, and recently I have observed the Tyrant Flycatcher (Myiarchus cinerascens) waiting near hives and capturing bees as they passed to and fro. These enemies of the beekeeper are very easily disposed of by the occasional use of a shotgun.

The Bee Moth—Different Stages of Development.

a, side view of larva; b, back of larva; c and d, views of pupa; e, cocoon.

The Green June Bugs (Allorhina nitida) on one occasion worried a colony of mine by attempting to pass the guard at the entrance. Their thick crust seemed to protect them against the stings, and after being rolled from the alighting board by a gang of angry bees, they came back and tried again. Narrowing the entrance and destroying the beetles by hand served after a time to put a stop to the attack. The occasion for their peculiar behavior seemed to be the nearness of the hives to a mass of decaying vegetable matter in which the beetles developed.

A good many enemies besides those mentioned are known, but they are not much feared by good beekeepers. Prevention, keeping colonies strong, in good hives, etc., are sufficient precautions against most of them.

Among the Diseases.

The diseases known as Foul Brood are quite a different matter, and the very mention of foul brood is likely to rasp the nerves of the best of beekeepers. Two different diseases are known by this name, one being designated American Foul Brood, the other, European Foul Brood. Both are germ diseases, carried by rod-shaped bacteria which attack the brood and infect the hives and combs so that they must be treated or destroyed to get rid of the taint.

The two diseases may be described as follows:

American Foul Brood.

Grubs light brown at first, becoming dark brown at an advanced stage of the disease. A small stick thrust into the body of such a grub, when withdrawn brings with it a string of gluey matter which may reach a length of an inch or more before breaking. The cells in which are diseased grubs are capped, the caps being sunken and broken finally. A decided gluey odor is given off by dead grubs. Drone and queen grubs are less subject to the disease than those of workers.

European Foul Brood.

The grubs are attacked at an earlier stage than in American Foul Brood, and those attacked become restless, and are marked with a yellow spot near the head end. They become entirely yellow later, and then brown, finally black. The substance of the dead bodies is less gluey than in those

About Umbrellas.

Eyeglass wearers have long since complained that people are careless with umbrellas. Many pairs of glasses have been knocked off and broken by persons who selfishly refuse to move an umbrella so as to allow other people to easily pass. A few even persist in dangerously spinning an umbrella along a crowded street, endangering the glasses and sometimes eyes of passing walkers.

New York's Nickname.

Gotham is the name of a village in England whose inhabitants, according to ancient tradition, were noted for their unsophisticatedness and simplicity and hence were called, by way of ridicule, "the wise men of Gotham." English legends and rhymes refer to the wise men of Gotham, and Washington Irving, in Salmagundi, applied it as a nickname to New York because the inhabitants were such wiseacres. The nickname has survived its original significance if it ever had any.

TWO WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Chicago, Ill.—"I must thank you with all my heart for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I used to go to my doctor for pills and remedies and they did not help me. I had headaches and could not eat, and the doctor claimed I had female trouble and must have an operation. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it and feel fine. A lady said one day, 'Oh, I feel so tired all the time and have headache.' I said, 'Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,' and she did and feels fine now."—Mrs. M. R. KARSCHNICK, 1438 N. Paulina Street, Chicago, Illinois.

The Other Case.
Dayton, Ohio.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of pains in my side that I had for years, and which doctors' medicines failed to relieve. It has certainly saved me from an operation. I will be glad to assist you by a personal letter to any woman in the same condition."—Mrs. J. W. SHERER, 126 Cass St., Dayton, Ohio.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

CALLING HIM TO TIME.

A Touching Family Reminiscence Which Effected the Purpose Desired.

THE young man was slow in declaring himself.

"I had an aunt," said the dear girl reminiscingly, "who was engaged for twenty years. She gave up all her spare evenings to the man and never went anywhere with anybody else and burned lots of gas and coal for him and gave him a nice supper every little while."

"That's very strange," said the slow young man. "Engaged for twenty years?"

"Yes, twenty years. The young man didn't know it, but auntie did. And finally—they were growing old, you know—she actually had to ask him to name the day. Wasn't that dreadful?"

"It was," said the young man. "I never heard of any one as slow as that."

The girl opened her blue eyes very wide.

"Didn't you?" she asked, with painful distinctness.

A great white light beat upon his dull brain.

The cards are out.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Mercenary Lover.

"Sir," said the young man with much respect, "I know that you are a millionaire and that I am poor. It seems presumptuous in me to aspire to the hand of your daughter. But I have thought the matter out, and with some diffidence I have resolved to make my request. Love, sir, is not bound by sordid considerations or by mere social convenience. I have a very real attachment for your daughter."

The old man seemed interested in the young fellow and inclined to listen.

"Quite so," said he. "As you know, I am not in the habit of sticking at trifles, providing the main purpose is straight. But which of my girls do you want?"

The young man breathed a sigh of relief and courteously replied, "Oh, I'll leave that to you, sir."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Her First Thought.

When the clever acrobat jumped into the air and turned three different ways before alighting the audience yelled its approval.

"Ever see anything like that before?" enthusiastically cried a young man who sat in one of the front rows with his best girl.

"Yes, indeed," answered the girl. "That looks just like the way the average man turns a griddlecake."—Judge.

A Compensating Condition.

A woman visited a friend whose husband thought of moving out into the country.

"Getting back to the land is all well and good," she said, "but could you be contented to live in a little place?"

"Yes," replied her friend, "I think I could if I were the only one there who owned an auto."—New York Times.

Hard to Impress.

"Didn't I tell you the last time you were here," said the magistrate sternly to the prisoner who had celebrated not wisely but too well, "that I never wanted you to come before me again?"

"Yes, sir," replied the prisoner, "but I couldn't make the policeman believe it."—Chicago News.

Between the Acts.

Foolishness.

There was a goose that waddled through her life, and night and morn, As fowls in general like to do, She gathered grains of corn. But this goose, differing from the lot, Ate little corn each day, And most of all the grains she got And stily stored away.

There was a man who lived his life In frenzy hot and strained, He passed his days in anxious strife, And dollars thus he gained. But this man spent by day or night Few dollars won the while, In saving took he vast delight And adding to his pile.

It would be custom's way to name The goose a goose indeed And to the rich man goodly fame Award as proper need, And so these lines no moral bear, For what would be the use? But did you ever anywhere Know such a foolish goose? — Ragtime Muse.

"EASY OPENING BOX"

BIG AGRICULTURAL LAND OPENING

TWELVE HUNDRED AND FIFTY TRACTS of five and ten acres each to be granted to prospective settlers in throwing open Thirty thousand Acres of Rich Southern Georgia Land, which is admirably adapted to the growing of celery, sweet and Irish potatoes, canteloupes, water melons, corn, oats, cotton, hay—innumerable immensely profitable paper shelled pecans.

Providing you are eligible under the classifications prescribed by us, you are now offered an excellent opportunity to break way from the drudgery and toil of a small wage, or working for the benefit of landlords, and go back to the land of plenty, to which, if granted, you will hold a warranty deed an abstract.

The best security on earth is the earth itself, and land is the basis of all wealth. Owners of productive lands are benefiting by the increasing high cost of living, while others are suffering from it.

An Opportunity to Secure Rich Productive Land Without Capital.

You will not be required to leave your present surroundings now. All we ask of those to whom we grant tracts is that they plant, or arrange to have planted, a crop of one of the above-mentioned products within three years, after which we will have it operated (harvested and replanted) for grantees. In consideration of 25 percent of the net profits derived from the sale of the crops, thereby allowing the grantee to pursue his or her present occupation until such time as they determine just what the yield of their acres amounts to. Consider what this may mean as a source of income, when statistics show that the yield of one acre of celery amounted to $1,268.45, and that one acre of well-cared-for paper shell pecans, in full bearing, should net its owner as high as $500.00 per year. We are of the opinion that after it is proven by actual results obtained in operating the land that they will need no further urging, and waste no time in locating in this land of plenty. We also require grantees to occupy the land within ten years, or sell it to some one who will occupy it; otherwise it reverts back to the grantor.

The land included in this opening is located directly on an adjoining the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad, about twenty-five miles west of Brunswick, a thriving city of fifteen thousand, having direct steamship service to New York and Boston, an excellent railroad transportation facilities to all points. The average temperature for six months of the year, from April to October, is 77 degrees; the climate is most healthful, delightful, and there is an ample rainfall of 51 inches per year.

OUR AIM IS FOR MUTUALLY BENEFICIAL RESULTS

As we are extremely desirous of having settlers locate on this property, and assist in its development, and thereby greatly increase the value of surrounding and intervening property, which we will hold, and to increase the traffic along the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad, and thus facilitate the service, we feel warranted in granting these tracts to those who register with us. We also have in mind business and residence plots which we will offer for sale after the opening, but which will not be included in it. We have "money-making afterward" considerations in this liberal-minded opening, similar to those of the Northern Pacific and other railroads when they granted their lands, and we expect to benefit thereby, as well as the one who will receive the tracts.

We have also planned to develop what is designed to be the best equipped, most up-to-date, scientific, commercial farm and orchard in existence. It will consist of six thousand acres, and will be included in the opening. All who register and receive tracts will get the benefit of the experiments and scientific methods in vogue thereon. While we are arranging to prevent over-registration, we will avoid many disappointments, such as occurred in other land openings conducted by the United States Government and railroads, by granting those who register in excess of the number of tracts to be granted, an interest in this commercial farm and orchard enterprise, in the hope that they may later locate in one of our town sites.

Examination of the land will cheerfully be permitted, and the opening will be held at Brownstown, Wayne County Georgia, one of the stations of the A. B. & A. Railroad, which is located on this property, and will occur as soon after the closing of registrations as arrangements can be made.

The presence of those registered will not be necessary at Brownstown on the opening day, unless they wish to attend, for their will be no favoritism shown anyone. It will be conducted by a committee selected for the purpose, and those registered will be notified of what they have been granted, as soon as possible.

With the ever-increasing population of this country there is no corresponding increase in the area of land, and naturally as the population increases and seeks the land in pursuit of health, happiness and independence, it will continue to be harder to secure.

The prosperous and contented class in Europe to-day are the descendants of those who secured land there when it was plentiful, while the descendants of those who obtained no land are now the peasants and slaves. You must realize that this may be your last chance to secure land in this country without a large outlay of capital, so it should not be necessary to urge you to act at once by forwarding us the application for registration attached to this announcement.
